Happy is the man who acquires the habit of reading when he is young. He has secured a life- long source of pleasure, instruction and inspiration. So long as he has his beloved books, he need never feel lonely. He always has a pleasant occupation of leisure moments, so that he need never feel bored. He is the possessor of wealth more precious than gold. Ruskin Bond calls books "Kings' Treasures". They are treasuries filled, not with gold and silver and precious stones, but with much more valuable like knowledge, noble thoughts and high ideals. Poor indeed is the man who does not read, and empty is his life. The blessings which the reading habit confers on its possessor are many provided we choose the right kind of books. Reading gives the highest kind of pleasure. There are some books which we read simply for pleasure and amusement-for example, good novels and books of imagination which must have their place in everybody's reading. When we are tired, or the brain is weary with serious study, it is a healthy recreation to lose ourselves in some absorbing story written by a great story teller. There are many noble books on history, biography, philosophy, religion, travel, and science which we ought to read, and which will give us not only pleasure but an education. And we can develop a taste for serious reading besides reading novels and books of fiction. Nor should poetry be neglected, for the best poetry gives us noble thoughts and beautiful imaginings clothed in lovely and musical language. Our friends may change or go away but our books are always patiently waiting to talk to us. They are never cross, peevish, or unwilling to converse as our friends sometimes are. No wonder then, books are the most faithful of friends.
